

DISTINCTIVE FILM IS SHOWING AT ORPHEUM

It is "The Love Girl" Starring Ella Hall with Harry Depp in Support.

Ella Hall is starred on the screen of the Orpheum theater today in "The Love Girl" a photoplay just as distinctive among photoplays as "Shoes" proved to be when recently shown upon the screen here. Harry Depp assists Miss Hall in turning the trend of the plot from impending disaster to the happiest of endings. Robert Z. Leonard has developed a highly interesting story along entirely original lines, introducing a novel theme to lend excitement and add sensationalism to an interesting love narrative. There is every element to enthrall all types of theatergoers, and a splendid company of photoplayers extract the last measure of possibility for good entertainment from the abundance of opportunity. Beautiful Mary Fuller appears in "The Garden of Shadows," a superb Universal drama of love and thrills in two acts.

The latest pictorial news shows scenes of Mexican and European battle fields.

Jackie Saunders, Balboa-Pathe star, ably assisted by some good direction on the part of Sherwood McDonald, and some real photographic art by Cameron Beckway, puts on a scene in "The Grip of Evil" that makes you gasp. In rescuing a child from quicksand, Jackie gets caught herself and the scene is novel and wonderful.

Frank Keenan is receiving the congratulations, this week, of his associate players at the Ince-Triangle studios, upon the birth of his first grandson. The heir to the Keenan endowments—both pecuniary and artistic—was born to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wynne, the father being the noted vaudeville comedian, and the mother Hilda, beautiful younger daughter of the great character actor. All concerned in the joyous event are declared to be doing well.

Mabelle Adams and Marion Murray have become vaudeville co-stars in a playlet by Edgar Allan Wolfe called "Cotton Stockings". The play shows two girls, one of whom yearns for the high life and companions of the silk stockings variety, while the other, a practical business woman, advises a judicious mixture of silk and cotton in life and friends.

It is believed that the Herbert Brenon Film Corporation is about to set a new speed record for the time elapsing between the organization of the company and its first production. The corporation came into existence the last week in July; Nazimova signed a contract immediately to appear in "War Brides," and by the second week in August active work in making the various scenes will be in progress. Mr. Brenon declines to guarantee to finish any film in any specific length of time, as he will not let it go out of his hands until he considers it perfect, but it is probable that his first production will be on view by October 1.

Ann Murdock appeared in New York this week in a comedy by Captain H. M. Harwood, a new playright, called "Please Help Emily," which one critic described as "a mildly diverting and cautiously frisky English trifle." In her support are Charles Cherry, Ferdinand Gottschalk, Alice John and Jeffreys Lewis.

Two features are offered today at the Grand Harold Lockwood and May Allison make their first appearance here in "The Come-Back," a strong story of the northern Maine woods. One of the striking features of "The Come-Back" is a realistic fight in the snow which Mr. Lockwood has with the "bully" of the camp. The first of the Beatrice Fairfax love stories, "The Missing Watchman," is also on the bill. Mutt and Jeff serve as an added attraction.

Tomorrow, June Caprice and Harry Hilliard will appear in a delightful production entitled "Caprice of the Mountains." The added attractions tomorrow will be the latest Pathe News and the first of the new Metro Travelogues.

"Money to Burn" is the catchy title of a new two-act drama in which Lillian Drew and John Lorentz take the leading parts. These Essanay players, both of whom can be as vicious a vampire or villain, respectively, as the screen requires, are here seen together for the first time in straight leads. Although no money is burned there are many intense situations in the play.

Elsie Ferguson is to appear in New York early in October in a new play by Hubert Footner, called "A New York Girl." Time scenes are laid in a fashionable home on Long Island.

William Collier is to appear under the direction of H. H. Frazee in "Nothing But the Truth," dramatized by James Montgomery from the novel of the same name, by Frederick Isham.

To catch burglars an Englishman has patented mechanism to drop a person who steps in front of a safe at certain hours into a pit, doors closing over him.

Miss Billie Burke.

Charming Billie Burke is at the Bijou theater today, which is good news for theatergoers who have been enjoying the beautiful Klein serial, "Gloria's Romance," one of the costliest and most magnificent film productions of the year. This episode of the series is called "The Fugitive Witness" and is number eleven. In these two reels, Gloria takes up the pursuit of the elusive Moby, that rotund creature who is the very life of the comic side of the serial. The production of this installment fits in well with the general atmosphere of the Billie Burke part of the affair. The snow scenes are pretty and so are the Palm Beach scene. Some of the latter were taken at a Palm Beach hotel and the regular guests took great pleasure in watching the company work in the foreground. The splendid Mutual feature, "Soul Mates," mentioned before in the Telegram, is also offered today along with a tropical film. The Bijou program for tomorrow is printed elsewhere in this department.

West Virginia Briefs

MARTINSBURG: City officials are drafting an ordinance authorizing the city to hold a special election for the purpose of voting on a bond issue of $250,000 for street improvements.

HUNTINGTON: Following recent court decisions and the action of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad has modified its ban on labelled intoxicants and now permits a passenger to carry one suit case of liquor into West Virginia or from one point to another within the state, provided it is properly labelled.

MOUNDSVILLE: A large force of workmen has started work on excavating for a big acid and storage plant of the United Zinc Smelting Company's new works to be erected here. Foundations have been built for machine shops and blacksmith shops and several trainroads of material are arriving.

GRAFTON: R. S. Middleton, of this city, has been chosen by the Prohibition national committee as a special advance man to arrange the itinerary of the candidates for president and vice president, who will make a tour of the country by private train.

PARKERSBURG: A long list of noted West Virginians is announced as speakers for the annual convention of the Wood County Sunday School Association to be held August 30 and 31 in the First Christian church here.

NEW MARTINSVILLE: Leo Carlin, of this city, has been appointed to the faculty of the College of Law in West Virginia University to succeed Prof. O. L. McCaskill.

WHEELING: A call for the first district convention of the Knights of Pythias to be held in Wheeling August 22, has been issued to District Deputy Grand Chancellor Charles Dietrich. All lodges of the northern section of the State comprise the first district. Action will be taken on matters which will come before the State meeting of the Knights of Pythias to be held in Huntington August 29, 30 and 31.

SISTERSVILLE: Striking at a humbug with one hand, Foster Spier lost control of the steering wheel of his automobile and the car went over a fifteen-foot embankment. Mr. and Mrs. Spier and their daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Evans and their child were caught in the wreckage and seriously injured. The accident occurred a short distance from this town while the party was en route to the Woodfield (Ohio) fair.

WAYNE: That a bootleggers' brotherhood with its own secret passwords, its own obligations and its own oaths in which members are sworn to be true and faithful to the standard of the organization exists in this county is charged and cognizance of the charge was taken by Judge John M. Wilkinson of the circuit court here. This brotherhood has reduced the supplying of liquor to the thirty ones to more than a science.

KINGWOOD: Mrs. Florence Lanham DeMoss, wife of A. L. DeMoss, of Morgantown, and the only sister of Mr. Harvey H. Lanham, of Fairmont, died at the Lanham home place at Gladesville, Preston county, where she had been visiting for several days.

UNION: Old age doesn't interfere much with the activities of some of Monroe county's stalwart citizens. Baldwin Ballard, just past 65, is an example. The other day he worked as a harvest hand in his hay field, mending his horse in the morning and riding from his home at Greenville to the meadow, where he hauled hay schock all day long with the other hands.

WHEELING: An extension of its out-the-pike line with the Pittsburgh-Washington, Pa., trolley system, contemplated for many years, is now to be got with the West Virginia Transportation and Electric Company and property options are being taken up.

CHARLESTON: Arrangements have been made by the Potomac Light and Power Company, which recently took over the holdings of the Martinsburg Power Company, to pay to the state of West Virginia $25,000 which was borrowed two years ago from the compensation fund by the old company. The interest on the debt exceeds $2,600.

MARTINSBURG: Clayton Chambers, aged 11, was killed when a gun with which he was playing was accidentally discharged.

CHARLESTON: A petition has been filed with the supreme court of appeals to prevent the Northern Virginia Power Company from increasing the height of its dam in the Shenandoah river in Jefferson county. The company was recently given permission by the public service commission to make the dam twenty-one feet in height instead of twelve feet. J. G. Howell and other citizens of Jefferson county filed the petition.

MONTGOMERY: Walter D. Grapnagh was killed near Williamson by a freight train.

CHARLESTON: Conditions having sufficiently improved along Cahn creek and its tributaries, Col. C. E. Morrison, the Headquarters Company and the First battalion of the Second West Virginia Infantry, has returned to the mobilization camp at Kanawha City, after having been on duty in the flood region since last Thursday. One battalion was left scattered along the creek and will not be ordered to camp for several days.

Canada in 1915 mined $18,936,971 worth of gold.

Telephone Service Tomorrow

N almost prophetic vision, forty years ago, enabled Alexander Graham Bell and his fellow pioneers to conceive that mammoth network of telephonic communication which now binds together the cities of the land, each with every other.

The purpose of the first Bell Company was to provide telephone communication in and between "all the States and foreign countries," and so did these pioneers build, ever with an eye to the future. Invention has piled upon invention, betterment has crowded betterment; the telephone has spanned the continent and the oceans! Such is still the unchanging progress! While only recently Chief Engineer John J. Carty of the Bell System said: "No one can tell how far away are the limits of the telephone art. I firmly believe * * that some day we will build up a world telephonic system, which will join all of the people of the earth into one brotherhood."

There is no such thing as success unless there be a great compelling ideal and purpose towards which to strive! When, as in the Bell System, that striving is realized even in the little things of service, there can be no doubt as to the continued accomplishment of to-morrow.
